The background of the image shows a university campus. In the foreground, there is a large, abstract wooden sculpture made of thick beams. In the background, there is a large, light-colored building with many windows, surrounded by green trees. Several cars are parked in a lot in front of the building.

Muhlenberg College aims to develop independent critical thinkers who are intellectually agile, characterized by a zest for reasoned and civil debate, committed to understanding the diversity of the human experience, able to express ideas with clarity and grace, committed to life-long learning, equipped with ethical and civic values, and prepared for lives of leadership and service. The College is committed to providing an intellectually rigorous undergraduate education within the context of an inclusive and diverse campus; we strongly believe that diversity is essential to learning and to our success as a pluralistic community. Our curriculum integrates the traditional liberal arts with selected pre-professional studies. Our faculty are passionate about teaching, value close relationships with students, and are committed to the pedagogical and intellectual importance of research. All members of our community are committed to educating the whole person through experiences within and beyond the classroom. Honoring its historical heritage from the Lutheran Church and its continuing connection with the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, Muhlenberg encourages, welcomes, and celebrates a variety of faith traditions and spiritual perspectives.

Letter from President Williams

Dear Members of Muhlenberg's Class of 2016:

College days typically rank high among one's most memorable times in life. Your years at Muhlenberg College have been a time of growth and memory-making. You have learned and grown, worked hard and had lots of fun times, and perhaps a few challenging times as well. You have almost certainly formed friendships that will endure, likely for life. Years from now, you will find you treasure the pages on which this book has recorded some of your and your friends' greatest memories.

Of course, this book is immensely special for me, also. Just as it records your last year as an undergraduate student, its pages contain a record of my own first year at Muhlenberg as President. I feel honored that we are forever bound in this way.

I hope you look back with great fondness, appreciation, and even love for your days at Muhlenberg. As you know well, Muhlenberg is a special community; one in which we care deeply for our students and do everything we can to support student success.

I wish you all the best in the years ahead. While you will have graduated from Muhlenberg College, you will remain forever a member of the Muhlenberg family. Our global community – our network – is as mutually supportive as is our campus community. Just as we have all learned how to hold doors open for others on the Muhlenberg campus, members of the Muhlenberg Network open doors for one another. Wherever your life path takes you, the Muhlenberg Network will follow and always be there, offering a source of encouragement and support.

Please remember to support your alma mater in the years ahead. Muhlenberg College will always need your support to help us provide the education and support services you received, and more, to future students. We will continue to strive to make you proud you chose to pursue your undergraduate education at Muhlenberg College. With your ongoing engagement – perhaps as a mentor for students or other alumni, a class agent, a member of a special committee, or in another capacity – as well as your financial support, Muhlenberg will only grow stronger.

So, treasure your memories of your college days at Muhlenberg. Muhlenberg will always treasure you, and your support of your classmates and the College.

Best regards,
John I. Williams, Jr.

Letter from Student Body President

To the Class of 2016:

It has been an honor serving as your Student Body President over this past year. As you all begin your separate journeys and start a new chapter of your lives outside of Muhlenberg, I am fully confident that the values I have seen you all demonstrate will carry you far.

Over the three years we've spent together I have had the pleasure of befriending and working with many of you. Through our time together I have seen you grow both personally and professionally. As a member of the Class of 2017 I can say that you have served as the best role models I could ever ask for. You are truly a dynamic and motivated class, always pushing those around you to be their best. But perhaps most significantly you are kind and caring people, valuing the well being of others and always willing to extend a hand to those in need.

As you enter into this new phase of your lives, take solace in the fact that your time at Muhlenberg has equipped you with academic knowledge, numerous life lessons, and a true value of community that will distinguish you amongst both your colleagues and competition.

Finally, as I wish you all the greatest success in your future endeavors, I am fully confident that the Muhlenberg community you have helped cultivate over the past four years will follow you well beyond the boundaries of our campus.

Congratulations Class of 2015!

Your Friend,

Christian Balodis '17
Student Body President

Just Living

We could still smell the last of summer as we moved into our dorms in August. We felt excited, yet anxious to begin a new year, with new professors, activities, and friends. And what we came to find during our time here is that the students are what define Muhlenberg - the familiar faces we see walking down academic row, in the dining hall, or at the library. We made lifelong friends and came to value our classmates for their intelligence and maturity inside and out of the classroom. This Yearbook is dedicated to the students, and specifically to the Class of 2016, whom we will miss terribly, but will look back fondly on our years together.

Opening Weekend

WELCOME FRESHMEN!

As the summer came to a close and we got ready to move back into our dorms, suites, and sorority and fraternity houses, we often forgot about the fact that an entirely new class would be there when we returned. Some of our friends became Student Advisors and welcomed the newest class with open and welcoming arms through orientation programs. Other upperclassmen moved in early to help move in the freshmen and carry their belongings up the dreaded stairs of Prosser, Walz, or Brown. The weekend concluded with opening convocation where the newest class was greeted by the President and the deans, and welcomed into our close-knit community.

Homecoming

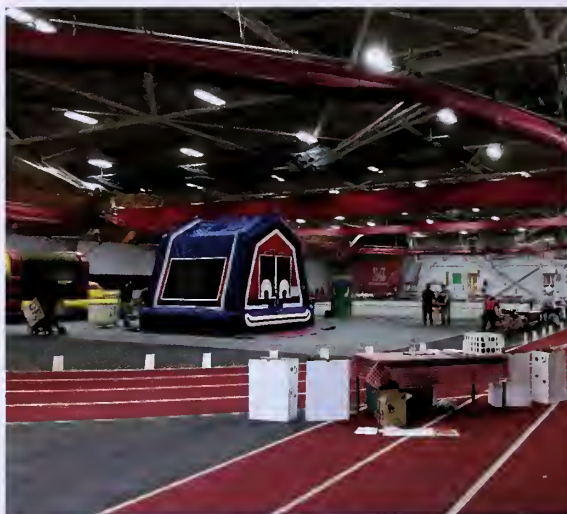

It was a relatively warm day for late September as the members of the Homecoming Court anxiously awaited the half-time ceremony to begin. Before the football game got off to an explosive start, last year's King and Queen, Lauren Alper and Venkat Mokkaapati, were welcomed back to Muhlenberg to crown the 2015 Homecoming Court. This year's contestants included: Zoe Briggs, Hannah Cohan, Vernon Jordan, Jake Levine, Emily Mebane, Katie Skwirut, Susie Trachtenberg, and Ginelle Wolfe. School spirit was practically tangible in the air as students, parents, athletes, and performers were running around preparing to celebrate and perform. We welcomed back our most recent graduates as well as those celebrating their 5, 10, 25, 50+ year reunions. The weekend also included various events including, alumni dinner, meetings with the new President, and social events.

Greek Life, athletes, dance teams, and the rest of the student body got involved with Relay this year!

Relay for Life

WHY DO YOU RELAY?

Muhlenberg students Relay to celebrate life, fight back against cancer, and remember the lives lost to the terrible disease. Thanks to efforts on campus, from other Relayers around the world and from the American Cancer Society (ACS), over 400 more birthdays are celebrated each day, and now 2 out of 3 cancer patients survive the disease. As part of the Relay programming, participants conduct a Luminaria ceremony, where purchased tea candles are placed inside paper bags in honor, memory, or support of someone who has fought, is fighting, or has lost the fight to cancer. When the lit candles line the track, Colleges Against Cancer (CAC) delivers a short speech and participants walk several laps in silence. Many find this aspect of Relay to be the most difficult and poignant as they think of loved ones, hold onto friends, and cry in memory. This year

Muhlenberg students gathered in the Field House, and with all the efforts of CAC and the Muhlenberg community as a whole, we raised $41,392.44, the largest amount in the school's history!

Jefferson Field Day

25 YEAR CELEBRATION

Jefferson Elementary students flock to Muhlenberg's campus to participate in relay races, obstacle courses, and team sports managed by Muhlenberg student volunteers. This day of teamwork, cooperation, and friendly competition has been the most widely participated-in community service event at Muhlenberg since its inception over 20 years ago. The relationship between Jefferson and Muhlenberg familiarizes the elementary students with a college campus early in life and, according to Jefferson administrators, has increased student attendance and performance. The partnership has come to include a variety of programs and events throughout the academic year, and the programs continue to develop based on needs and interests. Field Day is a favorite day of the year for both Muhlenberg and Jefferson students. As one third grader states: "I want to go to Muhlenberg when I grow up." This year, we celebrated the 25th anniversary! While Muhlenberg students were gearing up for finals, many students came out to volunteer for the exciting day and celebration.

Faculty & Administration: A Close Up

Unlike the students who were moving in and out every four years, our faculty remained the same. They became the foundation of our school. Many of our most distinguished faculty have been educating Muhlenberg students for decades and contributing to the challenging academic atmosphere. In this section we hope to recognize our professors for their patience and dedication. Thank you to all of our professors for sharing your experiences and your wisdom, for believing in us and for pushing us to achieve our very best.

Getting Organized

In between the long hours of lectures and labs, we somehow managed to fill our schedules with activities that fulfilled us and allowed us to contribute not only to our campus, but also to the greater Allentown area. Our activities were vast and because we were always so busy, we had to “get organized.” Although we did not receive a grade for our extra-curriculars, we found passions and interests that will stay with us past our time at Muhlenberg.

Singing & Dancing Galore!

A Cappella and Dance Teams

Students at Muhlenberg filled their schedules with extra curriculars, including the very competitive a cappella and dance groups on campus. They sang, they danced, and we all cheered them on as they did!

Greek Life

When we left for college, we left our families and all things familiar behind. At first, Muhlenberg seemed so scary and new and we strove to find and create the same connections we had left at home. Our freshman year friends provided us with the initial support we needed to make Muhlenberg begin to feel like home. But for us Greeks, it took joining a sorority or fraternity to really root us in the campus. Whether we were studying, volunteering, or just socializing, us Greeks stuck together. And as we leave Muhlenberg behind, we know that this bond will not only connect us to our brothers and sisters, but also to our alma mater.

Alpha Chi Omega

The real, strong women of Alpha Chi Omega will never forget the 2015-2016 year that they spent among their sisters, having fun while staying focused and goal-driven. On Bid Day we welcomed a new pledge class of Mus who have helped the Zeta Chi Chapter grow and improve over this past year. We also got people on campus sweating with our "Brake the Cycle" spin class, and Twister Tournament raising almost $1,000 for Turning Point of the Lehigh Valley, a counseling and advocacy group that assists victims of domestic violence. We celebrated Healthy Relationship Week, and attended a benefit concert, where the Acapella groups on campus beautifully sang songs about healthy love.

We went pumpkin picking, took a holiday photo, and attended a Breakfast with Santa Clause, spreading cheer to the elderly and their grandchildren. We did all this and more while having the time of our lives and remaining closer than ever with our sisters. We will miss the Kappas once they have graduated, but we know that each and every one of them will find immense success in the real world, as Real Strong Women. LITB!

Delta Zeta

As our seniors begin to leave their marks on Delta Zeta and Muhlenberg, 24 new turtles were brought into the sorority. Delta Zeta prides itself on sisterhood, leadership, and our amazing philanthropy. We are affiliated with philanthropies such as The Painted Turtle Camp and Starkey Hearing Foundation. The Painted Turtle Camp gives children with serious medical conditions the opportunity to go to camp and be kids. The Starkey Hearing Foundation helps give people who can't afford it, the gift of hearing. Last semester Delta Zeta held the annual Rose Bowl tournament to support The Starkey Hearing Foundation where we raised around $2,700. Delta Zeta is truly an organization that each and every one of our sisters can feel they can be their true self. Lucky to be DZ!

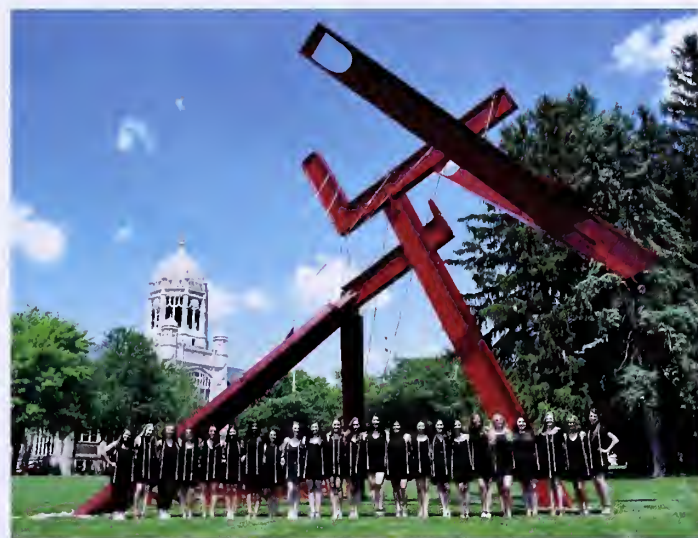

Phi Mu

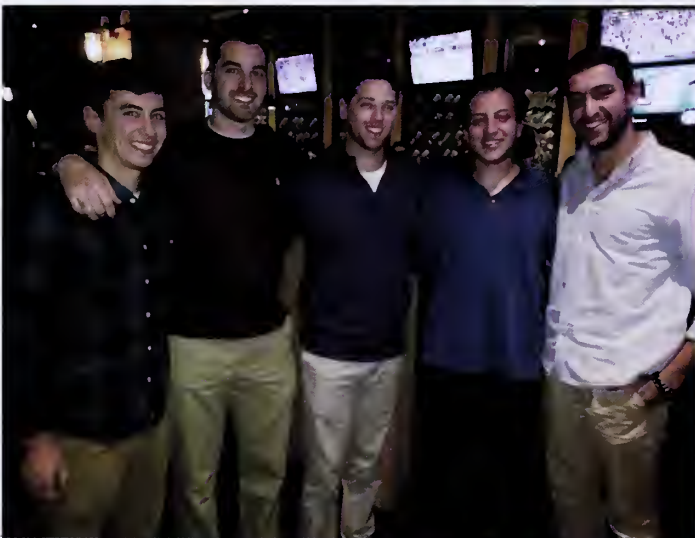

Being a sister of Phi Mu means more than just wearing the letters. We share an eternal bond that links us together beyond our time at Muhlenberg. No matter where we go or what we do, Phi Mu will always be our home. This past year has been very eventful. As soon as we were back on campus, Phi Kappa was anxious to meet our new members and began to prepare for Bid Day 2015. It wasn't long before the new members got to see how much fun it is to be a Phi Mu. From Inspiration Week to the traditional outing to Grim's Farm and everything in between, the bonds of sisterhood drew us closer together. We will fondly remember our Disney-themed Semi Formal at Brew Works and dancing the night away with our wonderful sisters. This fall we also joined forces with Zeta Beta Tau to spread awareness for our amazing philanthropy, Children's Miracle Network Hospitals, by co-hosting Get On The Ball. For our National Philanthropy Day this year we volunteered to help cheer on runners who participated in the Women's 5K classic in support of breast cancer research. One of our other many endeavors included baking for the Panhellenic Cupcake Challenge, where we made cupcakes and sold them to benefit the American Heart Association. We wish our senior class the best of luck in everything they choose to pursue. We congratulate each and every one of them on their accomplishments at Muhlenberg and in Phi Mu and hope that they come home to visit soon.

Phi Sigma Sigma

In Phi Sigma Sigma's 31st year on campus, our sisterhood remained as active and strong as ever. In the fall of 2015, we welcomed 24 wonderful, talented, and intelligent young women. Between weekly chapter meetings and fundraising events for our national philanthropy—which supports school and college readiness—we remained in excellent academic standing. We stayed involved in our tour guide, Cardinal Key Society, tutoring and athletic pursuits. We danced with MINT*, Perks, Copes, Soul Steppers, and performed in theatre and dance mainstages. We held Presidential Assistant, Student Government, and Resident Advisor positions. Between bid day, apple picking, photo shoots, super bowl Sunday, and pledge class dinners—no matter how busy life got, we made sure to make time for our sisters! Our seniors even took a trip to Mexico during spring break... where they had even more photo shoots! We cannot wait to see what the next year will bring, and though we will miss our seniors terribly, we know that they will thrive in graduate school, employment, and exploring the world! LITP!

Alpha Tau Omega

The new members bring a diverse set of skills that not only expands our reach on campus, but enriches it as well. This group brings more than what we are typically known for. We are excited to see how these guys develop and grow as they move from new members to more veteran members. Some of them already hold a position in the Fraternity and we are excited to see them mature. We believe that they can give back to us as much as we can give to them. ATO is for developing leaders, and these new guys are leaders.

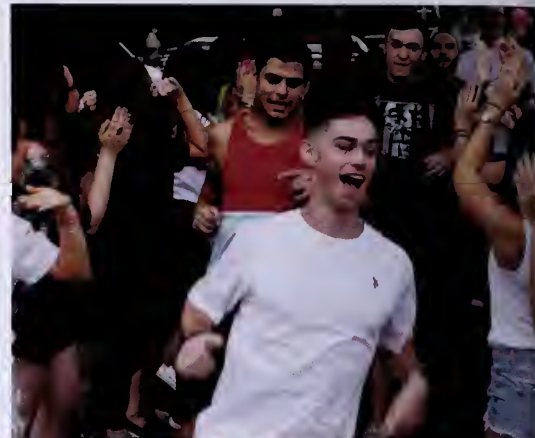

Philanthropy is an important aspect of life and is of significant focus at our chapter of Alpha Tau Omega. Whether it is on campus or in the surrounding Allentown community, we feel an indebtedness to give back. In the fall we participated in the Movember Campaign, to help bring recognition of men's health issues. We raised over $3,100 and had 31 brothers partake in growing mustaches. Additionally, we helped raise over $2,800 with Phi Sigma Sigma for USA Cares, a foundation that helps veteran and military families in need. Our event with Delta Zeta helped benefit the Youth Valley House. We helped cleanup gardens and plant in downtown Allentown in the spring semester. It is important for us ATO's to give back; we are so fortunate to have the opportunities that we've been granted, that we will continue to help and give where we can, on or around campus!

Delta Tau Delta

Throughout the year, Delta Tau Delta hosted a ton of events. In the fall we welcomed our thirteen new members into the brotherhood with a hike to Bake Oven Knob. In the spring we hosted our annual Pig Roast. We also ran many philanthropy events including our annual St. Baldrick's fundraiser as well as the JDRF walk at Dorney Park. In no particular order, Brandon Schneider, Dan Bigelow, Dan Orlin, Jake Levine, Jake Yedid, Jose Flores, Kyle Pucci, and Vincent Vitiello we're going to miss all of you guys. Thank you for being some of our best friends and a part of our brotherhood.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

During Sig Phi Epsilon's 78th consecutive year on campus, the brothers remained busy in their activities and in community service. We welcomed 16 new brothers, giving us 46 brothers in total. We volunteered hundreds of hours and raised over $1,000 for the Christopher and Dana Reeve Foundation. In addition, we raised over $1,000 for Plunge for a Purpose for Habitat for Humanity of the Lehigh Valley. We brought the former Philadelphia Eagle, Vince Papale to campus as the inaugural speaker for our annual Speaker Series. We will miss our seniors tremendously next year but we know that they will be successful in whatever they pursue!

Zeta Beta Tau

Recolonized in the Fall of 2015, the Alpha Nu Colony of Zeta Beta Tau National Fraternity had an amazing first year back on campus. Participating in Fall rush week alongside the other greek life organizations, ZBT ran out of the Chapel with 10 brothers, ready to build something great. In its first months, ZBT became very active within the Muhlenberg community. In their first big event, they joined forces with Phi Mu to host Get On The Ball, a fundraiser for the Children's Miracle Network Hospitals. In the Spring semester, ZBT had grown to 20 brothers, including many leaders on campus. These brothers helped plan and execute Brother Jason Silberman's show, "Magic and Mayhem," which benefited CMNH. ZBT also enjoyed its first Greek Week with Phi Mu. In late May, the brothers had their first community service project, planting a butterfly garden outside the entrance of the JCC. With their first year behind them, the brothers are looking forward to meeting up during the summer and expanding the fraternity in the fall.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega is the national co-ed community service fraternity on campus. We had 45 students pledge APO during the school year and have a total membership of over 100 brothers. Brothers complete a minimum of 24 hours of community service a semester in various activities throughout the community such as park festivals, Casa Guadalupe, Shape it Up and Habitat for Humanity. For the past three years, we have won numerous awards for our outstanding Pledge Process. Each year the chapter picks a different fundraiser, and this past year the chapter focused on fundraising for supplies for the Allentown School District.

Kappa Kappa Psi

Kappa Kappa Psi is the National Honorary Band Fraternity. We are a co-ed service fraternity, specifically focused on the promulgation of the greatest achievements in music. On campus, we organize the music library, keep the band room clean, host a Spring Rock Band competition, are involved in almost every musical ensemble, and usher concerts.

Off-campus we attend district conventions, volunteer at marching band competitions, and foster a relationship with other chapters nearby.

Out on the Field

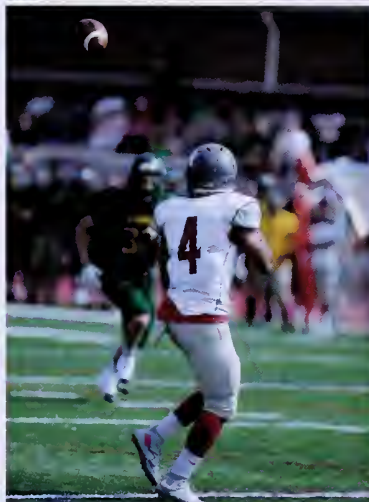

When we first joined our respective teams we didn't know what to expect. Sports allowed us to learn teamwork and time management, while remaining in good academic standing. We learned that the same skills we used on the field, we could also apply in the classroom and in our future careers. Notable events from the 2015-2016 season include the Women's Basketball team winning the Centennial Conference championship, Kyle Wilczynski's one-handed interception vs. Gettysburg, and Casey Fosbenner's game-winning field goal vs. Ursinus.

Flashback: Yesteryear

With the long days and seemingly endless nights unique to college life, it was often difficult to keep abreast, and sometimes easy to ignore, the news of the turbulent world. Still, the sometimes-unnoticed blur of news changed us and reorganized our world. And while we were not as news-conscious as we could have been, hopefully our college education helped us to understand, accept, and cope with the events of the future. Yesterday's news was the first draft of history. In this section, we will flashback to and focus on those first drafts from the fall of 2012 to the spring of 2016.

Top Stories of 2012-2013

Four More Years: Obama's Reelection

The 2012 Presidential Election was held on Tuesday, November 6, 2012. The Democratic nominee, incumbent President Barack Obama, and his running mate, Vice President Joe Biden, were elected to a second term, defeating the Republican nominee, former Governor of Massachusetts Mitt Romney, and his running mate, Representative Paul Ryan of Wisconsin. Obama defeated Romney, winning both the popular vote and the electoral college, with 332 electoral votes to Romney's 206.

Hell or High Water: Hurricane Sandy

Sandy made landfall in Southern New Jersey and made her way throughout the East Coast. She was full of surprises and, in addition to flooding and wind, even brought heavy snow to West Virginia. A weakened storm continued to move towards the Great Lakes and then up to Canada. Power outages were said to affect at least fifteen states, plus D.C. Hurricane Sandy affected millions of lives and became the second-costliest storm to hit the U.S., with damage totals estimated around $65 billion dollars.

Why so Syrius?

In 2011, Syria caught the Arab Spring bug happening across the Middle East. Anti-government protests broke out. Syrian President Bashar al-Assad did not appreciate these protests and responded with a massive crackdown, torturing and killing those who disagreed with him. This prompted protesters to form groups, and to eventually arm themselves against him. Soon, this was a full-blown civil war, with at least a thousand rebel groups with different agendas. For a while, there were rumors of both sides using chemical weapons. Then, in August 2013, graphic images surfaced that appeared to show a massive chemical weapons attack on civilians in Syria. Up until today, civil war still rages on in Syria.

Up in Arms: Trayvon Martin

On the evening of February 26, 2012 17-year-old Trayvon Martin was walking through a gated community in Sanford, Florida when George Zimmerman, a resident of the community, saw the teen and began following him. Despite instructions from the police dispatcher that he did not need to follow the young man, Zimmerman did not oblige; he shot Martin 70 yards from the townhouse where the youth was staying. Six weeks after the shooting, Zimmerman was charged with murder; but on July 13, 2013, a jury acquitted the 30-year-old of both second-degree murder and manslaughter charges. The public outcry was clear in the weeks following the trial, with peaceful protests and rallies against the verdict occurring nationwide.

2013-2014

Boston Marathon Bombing

On April 15, 2013 two Chechen Islamist brothers detonated two bombs at the marathon in Boston, Massachusetts, killing three people and injuring 264 others. During an initial interrogation in the hospital, Dzhokhar alleged that Tamerlan was the mastermind. He said they were motivated by extremist Islamist beliefs and the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, and that they were self-radicalized and unconnected to any outside terrorist groups. Dzhokhar was indicted on April 22, while still in the hospital, on 30 charges relating to homegrown terrorism, including use of a weapon of mass destruction and malicious destruction of property resulting in death. He was found guilty on all charges on April 8, 2015, and the following month was sentenced to death.

Edward Snowden & the NSA

Edward Snowden, an American National Security Agency (NSA) employee revealed confidential operations engaged in by the United States. He fled the country and sought asylum in Russia. The U.S. Justice Department charged Snowden with two counts of violating the Espionage Act and theft of U.S. government or foreign government property. Later that summer, Russian authorities granted him one-year asylum, which was later extended to three years. As of 2015, he was still living in an undisclosed location in Russia while seeking asylum elsewhere. His disclosures have fueled debates over mass surveillance, government secrecy, and the balance between national security and information privacy.

Obamacare Begins

Obamacare, aka the Affordable Care Act, is President Obama's big domestic achievement. It's also been Enemy No. 1 for the GOP. Obamacare was signed into law in 2010. It was upheld by the Supreme Court in 2012. The goal was to make health insurance more affordable, and get insurance for millions of Americans without coverage. Plus, it aims to stop insurance companies from doing things like rejecting people with pre-existing conditions. If you already have health insurance that fits the law's standards, you're good. If you don't, you can hit up HealthCare.Gov, or your state's website, to learn more about health care options and sign up for a plan. For those who are worried they can't afford health care, they might qualify for help from the feds. Really, really don't want health care? Too bad. There's a penalty for not buying it. The whole point is that if everybody's buying into the healthcare system, everybody will (theoretically) pay less.

Pope Francis I is Elected

Following the resignation of Pope Benedict XVI on February 28, 2013, a papal conclave elected Francis as his successor on March 13th. Francis is the first Jesuit pope, the first pope from the Americas, and the first pope from the Southern Hemisphere. Throughout his public life, Pope Francis has been noted for his humility, emphasis on God's mercy, concern for the poor, and commitment to interfaith dialogue. Since he was elected, Pope Francis played a key role in the talks toward restoring full diplomatic relations between the U.S. and Cuba. In addition, in May 2014, the Pope visited the State of Israel and in September 2015, he addressed the United Nations in New York City.

Top Stories of 2014-2015

E: The Ebola Story

Ebola is a virus that starts out like the flu (think: fever, headache), but things can get scarier later on (think: internal and external bleeding, hemorrhaging). It doesn't have a vaccine and there's no specific cure. Without access to the right health care, the mortality rate can be up to 90%. The virus was seen mostly in Guinea, Liberia, and Sierra Leone. In those countries, health workers not only dealt with very limited resources, but also a stigma. The disease is seen as extremely dangerous and shameful, which made patients scared to come forward. Thomas Eric Duncan, a Liberian man who had recently been in contact with a pregnant woman with Ebola, flew from West Africa to the U.S. in September 2014. Duncan started showing symptoms a few days after arriving, was treated in isolation in a Dallas hospital, and passed away. Two health care workers who treated him also contracted the virus, raising lots of questions over whether the U.S. was prepared to handle treatment.

CR-ISIS

...as in the Islamic militant group that's giving the U.S. bad flashbacks. ISIS has been around in Iraq and Syria for a while, but made a splash this year when it took Mosul — Iraq's 2nd largest city. It's been grabbing territory, terrorizing minorities, and beheading Westerners — leading the U.S. and friends to move in with airstrikes. The group has been designated a terrorist organization by the United Nations, the European Union and its member states. The United Nations holds ISIS responsible for human rights abuses and war crimes, and Amnesty International has charged the group with ethnic cleansing on a "historic scale" in northern Iraq.

MISSING

Things in the Middle East are always tumultuous. But the kidnappings and murders of three Israeli teens and one Palestinian teen haven't helped. Militants in Gaza, which is controlled by Hamas, have been firing rockets into Israel. Israel's been responding with airstrikes. The militants took this as 'game on,' forcing Israel to use its Iron Dome. This isn't just about the general conflict between Palestinians and Israelis, or disputes over territory. We're talking about a democratic state versus a militant group (that the U.S. & friends consider a terror group) that has vowed Israel's total destruction.

Havana a Good Time

The U.S. and Cuban embassies reopened for the first time in 50 years. President Obama announced that the U.S. and Cuba would have relations again. The diplomatic kind. The two haven't gotten along since dictator Fidel Castro took power during the Cold War. And a Castro's still in charge. But thanks to a little matchmaking from Pope Francis, Raul Castro and Obama are trying to play nice. Meaning things like restrictions on travel and banking have been lifted... and now, the embassies are open for business. The U.S. still has a trade embargo on Cuba, which hasn't been good for their economy - although Obama has been working to lift it. Then there's Guantanamo Bay, the controversial U.S. military prison in Cuba that Obama would very much like to close. Cuba agrees on this one. But not everyone in Congress feels the same.

2015-2016

JE SUIS PARIS

In Paris, gunmen attacked the offices of a famous French satirical magazine, killing 12 people on January 7, 2015. People across Europe gathered to condemn the attack, with people carrying signs reading "Je Suis Charlie" ("I Am Charlie"). This past November, Paris saw another deadly attack - several coordinated attacks across Paris, left at least 129 people dead and more than 350 injured. Three teams of terrorists carried out coordinated attacks throughout Paris. The attacks started with suicide bombings outside a stadium where French President Hollande was attending a soccer game. There were also shootings at several bars and restaurants, and a shooting and suicide bombings at a concert hall where a hostage situation unfolded. These are the deadliest attacks in France since World War II. This attack only brings further attention to the European migrant crisis, which leaves Europe's borders open to terrorist organizations.

Kind of a BIG deal

After more than a decade of talking it out, the U.S. and friends and Iran shook on a Nuclear Deal. For the U.S. and friends, it's aimed at stopping Iran from building a nuclear weapon. For Iran, it's aimed at lifting sanctions that have done serious damage to its economy. Iran promised to limit its nuclear activities for 10 years. Read: anything that could make a nuclear weapon. And it won't be able to trade or sell weapons for a few years. In exchange, it gets to say buh-bye to those sanctions. The politics in the Middle East could now be transformed - the U.S. and Iran are now friendlier, Iran's economy, which was sidelined because of sanctions, could now be a major international player, and Iran could now have more resources to help in the fight against ISIS. Although this deal creates tension between the U.S. and Israel, which strongly disagrees with this deal.

EUR-in-Trouble

The European Union is struggling to deal with a refugee and migrant crisis that's getting worse every day. Refugees are forced to leave home to escape things like war. Migrants leave home voluntarily to try to make their lives better with a new job or education. Take a brutal civil war in Syria, this thing called ISIS, and weak economies in Africa, and you have hundreds of thousands of people rushing to get to the EU. For months, there has been a series of tragedies and chaos associated with people trying to escape to the EU. Then in September, everyone saw photos of Aylan Kurdi, a drowned Syrian toddler who washed up on a beach in Turkey. That, plus the massive numbers of migrant and refugee deaths, made EU leaders decide they better shape up.

The Elephant in the Room

It's that time again...elections. Everyone can agree on one thing: no one's happy. Both parties blame the other. And voters blame Congress. On a national level, this means you should brace yourself for a government shakeup. On a local level, expect people to try to create change closer to home. There is no defining issue driving the nation to the polls, but a laundry list of things on voters' minds. See: The Economy, Immigration, Foreign Policy, etc. As this Yearbook is going to print three candidates are still in the running: Donald Trump, Hillary Clinton, and Bernie Sanders.

The Class of 2016

Walking across Muhlenberg's campus you notice the doors, bright red, substantial and distinctive, inviting you to open them. Muhlenberg provided us with a tremendous amount of opportunities for opening - and closing - doors, a time of leaving the familiar and looking into places we've never looked before. In the four years we've been here, we've watched Muhlenberg make tremendous changes, including changes in the administration, the faculty, the food, and the logo. And as Muhlenberg changed, we changed with it. Some of us may have plans for next Fall and some of us may still be figuring it out. This section focuses on the Class of 2016 and our accomplishments thus far. Good luck Class of '16!

My decision to attend Muhlenberg College was probably one of the best I have ever made. It is hard for me to believe, now four years later, how incredibly fast it went. I know, however, that the many great memories, and even better friends I have made here will last forever. Many of those memories and friends directly resulted from the many, diverse experiences Muhlenberg provided, including first and foremost, football. I had the opportunity to spend four years as a member of the football team, and for one year the honor of serving as captain. Much of my Muhlenberg experience, and certainly my best memories, centered on time spent (and trouble caused) with my teammates. On the academic side, I participated in the Muhlenberg Scholars program, tutored, led organic chemistry workshops, and spent a summer and school year doing research with Dr. Sherri Young. Many of my memories resulted from time spent in the chemistry department, a close-knit group where I was able to form close relationships with my classmates, as well as my professors. Although I am sad to leave 'Berg, I know my many experiences here have prepared me well for whatever life brings on next.

When I came to Muhlenberg, I did not really know what I wanted to involve myself in, or who I wanted to be. I wanted to try to experience Muhlenberg as a whole by joining a variety of activities. I started with Muhlenberg College Emergency Medical Services, because I was on a squad at home and wanted to continue my work here. Throughout that first year working in EMS, I gained the confidence and bravery that I needed to pursue other goals on campus. That leadership encouraged me to join the Student Advisors, which would help me give back to the Muhlenberg community and help acclimate the incoming freshmen to our campus. I enjoyed this opportunity so much that I wanted to continue along that path and become part of the Student Orientation Advisory and Planning (SOAP) committee. I served on SOAP for two years before finally passing the baton to some of the Student Advisors I helped train. Junior year was a time of great development. It was then that I trained as a Biology Learning Assistant, and was able to work with the greatest teaching team (and the greatest students!) anyone could ever ask for under Dr. Paul Meier. That very semester, I worked with a group of dedicated individuals to (re)start the Muhlenberg Quidditch Association, and I acted as the founding captain of the team. Our Quidditch team is thriving due to a great bunch of students who are looking after its future, ensuring that the team is always growing, competing, and, most importantly, having fun! That Spring, I studied abroad in Copenhagen, Denmark with the loveliest host family (I am convinced) in the entire world. I have learned so much about culture and connections through my travels, and I was surprised to see how that carries over back in the Muhlenberg community. Finally, I reached my senior year, and now I am passing these responsibilities down to younger members. I am amazed at all they have done with my work and the work of those before me. I was glad to be a part of this cycle in Muhlenberg College, and I am excited to see it continue with new students, year after year.

As a first year student I felt as many have—confused, a little aimless, and with more free time than I've had since infancy. Looking back, those emotions are almost laughable because today I long for a solid fifteen minutes where I can just sit and do nothing. I came to Muhlenberg because I wanted to be able to double major, be involved in numerous activities, and have fun while doing it. I can leave now saying, confidently, that I am smarter in not just academics, but in life lessons. One of the first jobs I had here was working in the Office of Residential Services. It was only a quick leap until I was a Residential Advisor, working in Benfer and Brown, and eventually becoming a Head Resident Liaison for the MILE area. This job has given me one of my largest on-campus families, the ability to manage crises, and stories to write about until I'm 70. Another campus family I've found is in my sorority, Phi Sigma Sigma. There I met people from all different walks of life that I would have never known. I was given the opportunity to serve on the executive board for two years, and I made friendships that mean the world to me. But perhaps one of my most favorite experiences was being a Film and Media & Communications double major and serving on the Muhlenberg Theatre Association's board for three years. Here I met my best friends, I was allowed to be a little weird, and I was able to still participate in theatre, despite my different majors. I came to Muhlenberg looking for a college experience, but I will leave having my world views challenged, skills and talents I never knew I wanted, and memories, friends, and a family that will carry me through the rest of my life.

The first time that I visited Muhlenberg, as a high school junior, I felt instantly that this is where I belonged. There was a true feeling of community and an overwhelmingly positive energy. Now, as I get ready to leave after four intense years,

I can truly say that my first impression was right on target. From day one, I was determined to experience all that I could from my college career. I honed my performance skills with my wonderfully talented friends in Girls Next Door, Damsels in Excess, and SongCycle; I am so proud to have been in these groups all four years, spanning countless performances and so many laughs and late night rehearsals! As president of Girls Next Door for the past two years, I know that this premier a cappella group will continue to wow the Lehigh Valley for years to come! As a member of the a cappella council, I have chaired A Cappella Fest for the past two years. I am so proud of the funds that we have raised for the Allentown schools, and for the camaraderie we have fostered in our singers. I have helped to shape

Muhlenberg for the next years to come by serving as a Student Advisor, Tour Guide, and Student Delegate, as well as through my work in the admissions office. I am a proud sister of Delta Zeta, and know that many of these friendships will last a life time. A big surprise has been that, thanks to the incredible faculty in our Judaic Studies department as well as my love for our active Hillel, my interest in Jewish studies was rekindled and I have pursued a minor in that discipline, along with my major in Theatre. Lastly, but perhaps most significantly, at this writing, I am about to chair my second Relay For Life of Muhlenberg College. I have been a passionate fundraiser and leader for the American Cancer Society since attending my first Relay eight years ago. Muhlenberg gave me the opportunity to lead our Relay to growth and success, and, while giving back to our community, I have gained so much in terms of leadership skills: negotiating, budgeting, marketing, planning for logistics, and being part of a regional effort to make a difference in the lives of so many. Thank you to all who Relayed with me and helped our event grow in these past two years! When I decided to pursue a liberal arts education, I hoped to build a broad base of knowledge that would carry me to my next steps in life: I have gained that, as well as the ability to think clearly, with an open mind and open heart. I have learned so much about myself and about the world around me. I could not be more grateful for these past four years and for all those who shared it with me.

I am, like many other Muhlenberg students, a part of many things; I am an American Studies major and I completed the Pre K-4 Elementary Education certification program. I am a Lead Tutor in the Writing Center, a tour guide, a dancer, an America Reads volunteer, and an independent researcher. With deep involvement in many campus communities, I have shared and heard many stories about Muhlenberg connection; it seems that whenever a current Mule and an alumni run into one another, they feel happy to indulge one another in happy stories of red doors, inspiring professors, and amazing dining hall cookies. When I was a freshman, I felt like that kinship must be because of Muhlenberg's size but I now realize it has to do with more than just a small student body. I think when I become that eager-to-remember alumna, what will remain most poignant in my memory is neither my Muhlenberg accomplishments nor the commitments that structured my time here. Instead, I will think of a concept that my 2nd grade students in one of my student teaching placements taught me: synergy, which suggests that two parts combined yields an impact greater than the sum of those two parts. My Muhlenberg experience has been fueled by synergy with my fellow learners, scholars, dancers, future educators, professors, roommates, and friends. This time has been so deeply meaningful to me because the collaborative energy between this community and myself has yielded more than the simple combination of any of those two parts. I told my parents, after my final performance on the Empie stage, that I was "so lucky to be a part of this;"

I mean it! I have contributed to, learned from, and grown because of Muhlenberg's synergy.

I didn't know what I was getting myself into when I arrived on campus freshman year. I knew college was going to be a life-changing experience, but I had no idea what I wanted to get involved in or that the people I would meet would be so influential. I remember attending the activities fair and seeing all the different clubs and organizations on campus and thinking to myself, "I want to do everything." And

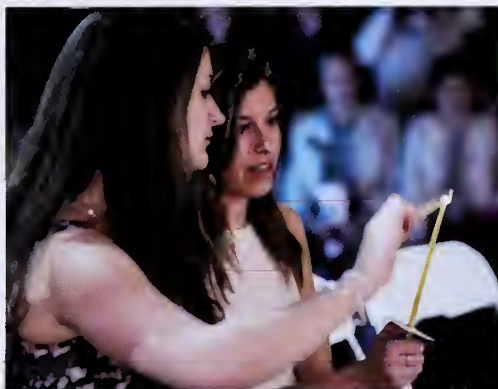

I tried for a little bit. Like many other students, I signed up for every club that sparked even the tiniest of interests, from Fencing to Comunidad Latina to Muhlenberg Activities Council. Soon, it was challenging attending every single meeting and event so I knew I had to narrow the list down. I decided to be a member of the clubs and organizations that had the most influence on campus. I wanted to be a part of those that would enable me to interact with staff and faculty, and allow me to learn about the operations of Muhlenberg. I have always been interested in how institutions were run and wanted to be part of the larger scheme of things and be a voice for the student body. Luckily, I was able to do that. On Student Government, I was able to work closely with faculty by being part of numerous committees from Academic Policy Committee to Curriculum Committee and the Greening Committee. Seegers Union Student Advisory Board gave me the opportunity to provide my input regarding the changes being made in Seegers Union. I also worked in the President's Office and became the Presidential Assistant for the Student Activities Office, which put my knowledge about the college and the student body to good use. Tour guiding allowed me to share that knowledge with prospective students and the Cardinal Key Society gave me the chance to connect with alumni and exchange stories about our experiences at 'Berg. The different organizations I became involved with allowed me to gain a new perspective about Muhlenberg. I got to see the behind-the-scenes action that many didn't have the opportunity to, and I love that. Being a part of these organizations definitely made my experience at Muhlenberg amazing, and I wouldn't have done it any other way.

Champagne Brunch is held the Friday before graduation. Held in the Wood Dining Commons, the senior class comes together for brunch with student speeches, awards, and faculty addresses. The first weekend of freshman year, students write a letter to themselves often expressing their dreams for the next four years, sometimes including a small amount of money or other things. At the brunch, students receive those letters and are able to reflect on what they hoped to achieve and what they actually achieved.

Baccalaureate is an inter-faith candle lighting service that begins the commencement weekend activities for our students and their families. In addition to readings and music offered by members of the class, President Williams addressed the gathering and three seniors - Emily
 Paley, Vincent Vitiello, and Aratanxa Dave - offered reflections. Although optional, this event is attended by the vast majority of the class and by their families and friends.

Prominent Harvard law professor Charles Ogletree spoke to 517 graduates under clearing skies May 22 at Muhlenberg College's 168th Commencement and encouraged the graduating class to bounce back from failure, take risks and hold onto faith. He shared anecdotes of times in his life and career in which those themes were tested, like when a promotion he thought to be a sure thing was offered to someone else. Ogletree said, "Life is likely to throw you some curve balls. But when they come, fear not, life isn't over. Take a little time to mourn your loss, and then be ready for new possibilities. Just as sure as there are curve balls, there are always, always new possibilities."

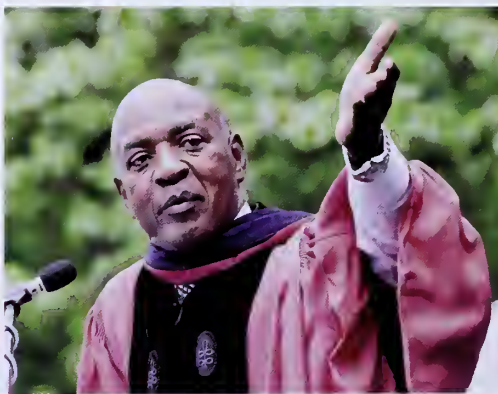

Student speaker Christian Paris drew inspiration for his speech from Dorjee-Tseten, a Tibetan man in exile from his homeland, whom he had met while studying abroad. "Each and every one of us sitting in these hot chairs...has a gift that is uniquely our own. Whether it is being a brilliant dancer, math scholar, athlete, leader...we have gifts that are naturally a part of who we are. This leads me back to the first part of Dorjee's response: we must grow the talents and gifts that we have within us: if we don't, then we waste the potential they have from empowering ourselves, and even inspiring others. Of course, this then segues into Dorjee's second purpose: we have the responsibility to nurture the gifts in others: for if we do not, how do we expect others to do the same in return?"

While this Yearbook has thus far focused on the students, faculty, and daily life of our campus, we would also like to take the time to recognize those that have gotten us to this point. For four years, Muhlenberg gave us a home away from home. We called, texted, and Facetimed our parents and siblings when we could - on our way to or in between classes, catching them up on our our most recent exam, paper, or interesting lecture from our favorite professor. They listened eagerly and gave thoughtful advice when appropriate. And so when graduation came along and we walked across the stage and received our diplomas, many of us realized that this was not only our diploma, but represented the constant support from our loved ones.

To our very special Channy,
We are so proud of you and all of your Amazing Accomplishments!
We are so excited for you as you look forward, set new goals, dream new dreams and take your wings and soar to new heights!

Four years go by so fast and you have done so much in that time. Mom and I think your choice to be at Muhlenberg was the right one. It allowed you to grow in many ways; educationally, intellectually and socially. You have done all the right things; joining Delta Zeta Sorority and taking valuable classes at Muhlenberg and at Parsons, The New School. These classes have given you the hands-on and classroom experiences necessary to make a wise decision about your future direction. We think your choice to go to graduate school at the Laboratory Institute of Merchandizing (LIM) is a good one and you will have a great experience in Manhattan. The education you get there will provide you with the expertise you need to move into the work world. You are moving along your career path with great prudence!! As you read this, take a breath and relax for a moment knowing that you are a doer and not a dreamer. What a high place you stand upon now. Look down at where you started; you've come a long way from Ohev Shalom!! Be proud of yourself as we are proud of you! Remember that Mom and Dad will always have your back; we will always continue to provide for you in whatever way you need us to; we will always love you; to the moon and back!!

Richie, we have seen you grow into a fine young man these past four years at Muhlenberg, and we are very impressed with the way you met all the challenges that were thrown your way. You fought hard and never gave up, the mark of a great young man. You refined your skills and learned many of the lessons necessary to thrive in your chosen field of theater/acting. The road to your future will be very wide and sometimes bumpy. We feel that you are now prepared to find your way. You are so talented and smart, but most important you have a big heart. These traits will prove to be extremely helpful on your life's journey. Two parents could not be any prouder or love you any more than we do. Mom and Dad

Congratulations to our daughter, Andrea S. Cohen. You have completed our lives and made us such proud parents. We have seen you grow from the days you were a small, shy, but amazingly curious child, who asked so many great (if sometimes annoying) questions; through years of ever increasing growth into a beautiful, hard working, confident, loving young woman. We remember you gobbling up books at an incredible rate. We would go with you to the bookstore at midnight, when a Harry Potter book was released, and by the next morning you had finished it. We recall that you were so shy about standing out, but became such a leader. You excelled in school and your teachers said: "your smile lit up the room and the light went out when you were not there." We are so happy that you showed such wisdom in those you chose to be close too, and how greatly your friends love you.

Now, you are graduating from college, and soon you will be showing your talent in the world of work, since you already have a great job with a top 5 accounting firm. We know you will succeed. We can see your future. You will always be surrounded by your friends, your family, your books, and an ever increasing circle of love.

Go Forth With All Our Love,

Mom and Dad

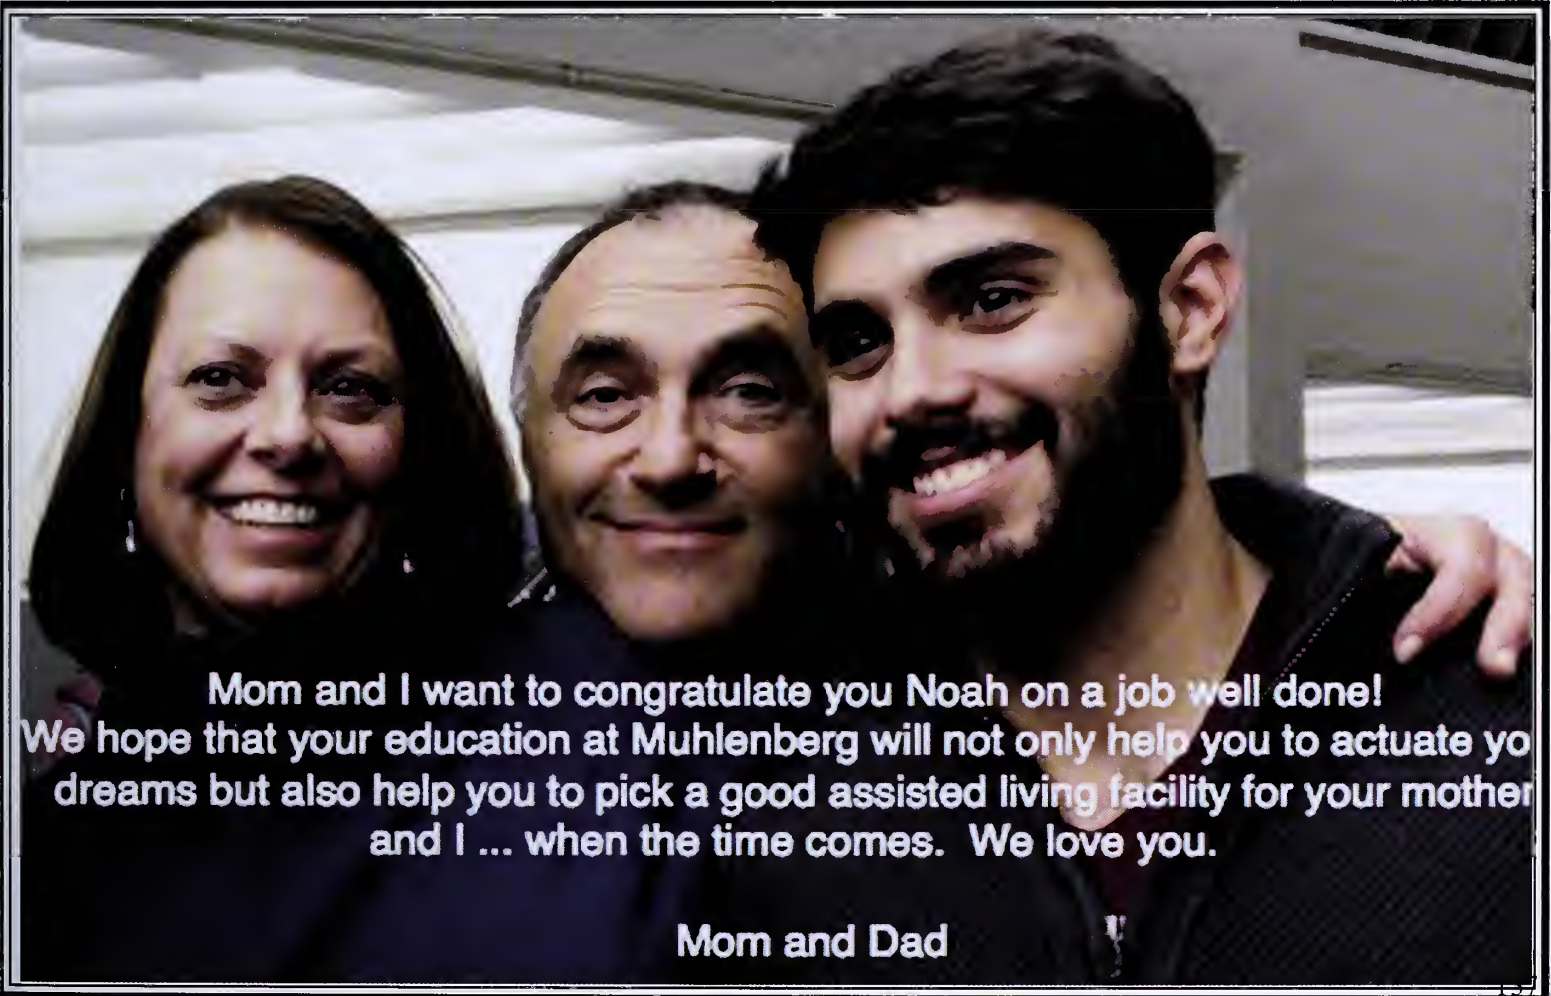

Dearest Luke,

There are no words to express the depths of our love and pride.

It has been a privilege and unbelievable joy to watch you grow into the man you are today.

We are so very proud of you and love you with all of our hearts,

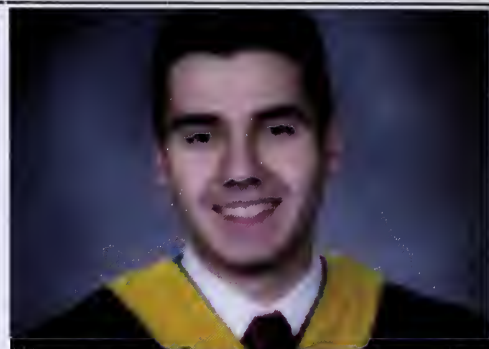

Mom, Dad, Zach and Lauren

Mom and I want to congratulate you Noah on a job well done!

We hope that your education at Muhlenberg will not only help you to actuate your dreams but also help you to pick a good assisted living facility for your mother and I ... when the time comes. We love you.

Mom and Dad

Something incredibly special happened on May 15, 1994. That specialness only affected, at the time, a few people. This, for us as a family, changed our lives forever. On that day, we as your parents received a blessing, one for which we will be eternally grateful. Little did we know the awe-inspiring things that you would accomplish. Your perseverance and specialness have since affected many. From being in every show, both Spring and Fall from 5th grade, to each choir performance. The National Honor Society, World Language Honor Society President, AP Scholar, somehow you managed to fit it all in and still graduate in the top 5 of Dayton's class. Then came the true test, college searching and application. No, we can't take the normal route and apply to many. You decide Muhlenberg College is your home a mere fifteen minutes after arriving on campus for the tour and information session. Further, you declare at lunch you want to go Early Decision. Oh, did we mention, your heart was with Muhlenberg only, and you were not applying to any other school? You earned your spot in your favorite/only place, and have flourished from move-in day. You auditioned for and got a spot in The Muhlenberg Dynamics and The Muhlenberg Choir. You were selected as a Campus Delegate, spreading your love for Muhlenberg to interested students. As a science major, life has not afforded you the opportunity to rest on your laurels. It's been putting in the work since you started. You worked for a spot in your professor's lab to gain experience that will be invaluable...yet another thing that you have sought and accomplished. Now as we near the end of your undergrad career, the pride and love we have for you is inexplicable. Something we knew we would feel NO MATTER WHAT, but nonetheless something that brings us incredible love, amazement, awe, and pride more than we can describe. So, as you complete this chapter of your life, moving on to the next, to whatever grad school and wherever the next step may lead, know that we are your biggest fans, cheerleaders, and have adoration words can never describe. CONGRATULATIONS ON EVERY ACCOMPLISHMENT, EVERY GOAL, EVERY ACHIEVEMENT AND EVERY PERSONAL BEST!!! We love you more than you will ever know, and can't begin to let you know how proud you have made us every step of the way. Thank you for making our job so easy, just by being you. We love you MORE!
